Jon A. Nuljon                    December 4, 2016                    Instructor name: Daniel

Step 6: Essay – Why Python?

By studying this course I am paying homage to a show and a handful of movies and songs that I grew up with and which are linked with many cherished experiences. Being from the generation I am, it does not surprise me to find Python is in such a state of popularity at this time. So, with that little insight in mind, I find the study of Python to be an attractive proposition.  I get to start from a position of comfort, sort of like going to a party with old friends, and I gain knowledge for building a skill that happens to be in high demand. I can't imagine a better setting than this. I already have a few ideas of how I might apply such knowledge and skills for my own sake, and so this only adds to the attraction. I am happy to be at such a juncture and step forward with a smile.